

I Hate Hamlet Opens at Morgan Stock Stage

Oct 18, 2007

advertisement

After a season of frolicking musicals like Guys and Dolls and Pirates of Penzance, Director Peter DeBono and the MPC Theatre Company go in a totally different, introspective direction that does not lack humor with I Hate Hamlet. The play follows a character, Andrew Rally, whose life falls apart due to the loss of his television series, the obstinacy of a girlfriend who clings to her virginity, and an agent who misses her dead lover and summons his ghost. MPC Players weave a tight tale of Rally's conflict and self-examination. [KR]

7pm/Thu; 8pm/Fri-Sat; 2pm/Sun. The Morgan Stock Stage at the MPC Theatre Company, 980 Fremont St., Monterey. $10-$25. 646-4213 or ticketguys.com

Printer Friendly Version

© 2006 Milestone Communications Inc. All rights reserved. Terms of use